World evaluation case competition

Call for Applications from Student Teams

Do you want your country to be represented in an international event where teams of students compete in analysing a case involving evaluation of a program or policy?

The 2019 World Evaluation Case Competition is now open for applications.

Assemble a team of three to five students, graduate or undergraduate, and apply by September 15th, 2019.

The competition is in English. Teams that work in another language will have extra time for preparing their analysis of the case. It is a virtual competition. No travel is required.

The event will take place on Saturday, November 9th, 2019. For more information on the competition, and how to apply, please visit
